USA

We offer three distinct 11-16 day study tour options around the U.S. to some of the most productive farming areas in the world. From the breadbaskets of California and the corn belt of the Midwest to the subtropics and citrus of Florida, our study tours combine farm and industry visits with recreation and adventure. Whenever possible, we include participatory activities such as rodeos and state fairs, and we promote cultural exchange with organizations like Young Farmers and Ranchers and Future Farmers of America. We explore both conventional and organic production through our specialized industry visits. Each trip we facilitate is tailored and individualized to the wishes and interests of every group.

Latin America

We offer three distinct 11-16 day Latin America study tour options to the beautiful countries of Ecuador, Bolivia, and Costa Rica. In this time, we explore the rich cultural heritage, agriculture, fine food, and natural wonders of each country. These regions are some of the most biodiverse places in the world. Home to the Amazon jungle and Andean highlands, the biodiversity and dramatic patchwork of these landscapes provide for a richness and diversity in agricultural production. These countries are major producers and exporters of bananas, flowers, cocoa, shrimp, rice, cotton, sugar cane, corn, potatoes, tropical fruits, palm and coffee, dairy and beef cattle, and much more. All trips visit large commercial farms and ranches as well as small subsistence operations, markets, and value added operations. Our Latin America trips are filled with cultural exchange, recreation, music, culinary delights, and many adventures.

Western Europe

Join us to discover a part of the world where farming, food and family life traditions have been evolving for thousands of years! Our 10 to 18-day study tours in Western Europe explore the agricultural, livestock and natural resource sectors of Denmark, Holland, Ireland or Switzerland. This is a unique European experience for farmers, youth in agriculture, and foodies alike! You will discover fantastic places, walk through centuries old towns, enjoy amazing food, and meet passionate farmers and producers. Learn how Europeans live and connect with their markets, check out innovation, compare notes and be inspired. Our study tours take us off the beaten track and combine farm and industry visits with recreation and adventure. Visits might include both small-scale family and large-scale commercial farms; specific commodity interests such as crops or livestock, dairy, forestry, fruit, vegetables, fully computerized greenhouses along with precision farming, automated dairies and outstanding innovations in renewable energies. We focus on both farmer-to-farmer and youth-to-youth groups and engage in cultural exchange with Young Farmers, Professional Associations and Agricultural Colleges. Our guides are locals who help us explore the natural beauty of the places we visit and immerse us in local food and cultural events that range from tractor pulling to traditional dance groups or alpine yodelers.
